

Memoirs of a 30-Year Cancer Survivor

Ronald Bye was diagnosed with cancer at the ripe old age of twenty and was told he would not likely survive with a five-year prognosis less than ten percent. Within hours of hearing that devastating news, he never again even considered he would not live. This is his recount of the process of surviving, persevering through horrendous treatments, self-awareness and ultimately healing. We never know just what we are capable of until we are forced to endure hardship and move beyond it. Ron found the road to healing by giving back to the cancer community through his advocacy efforts.
